2013 ORR WINES CHENIN BLANC

Erica Orr caught the wine bug while working harvest with Cathy Corison in Napa Valley. She honed her craft working at some of the best wineries in the world, including Rudd Estate, Cain Vineyard, Domaine Dujac, and Yering Station. In 2005 she moved to Washington State and started a wine-making consulting business in Woodinville, and has helped many wineries such as Baer, Mark Ryan, Guardian Cellars, and Sparkman with lab work and technical analysis. She has made her own wine, the 2013 Orr Wines Chenin Blanc 'Old Vines' that is dry, delicious and delightful to savor with local finfish. Only 116 cases were produced.

FEATURED WINES: EIGHT BELLS WINERY

Three new wines have just been released from Eight Bells Winery. The 2011 Eight Bells Roosevelt Red is a great value Bordeaux-style blend. The 2012 Eight Bells Sangiovese is a combination of Sangiovese Grosso and Piccolo clones from the Red Willow Vineyard. These vines are over 20 year old, some of the oldest Sangiovese in Washington. The wine shows beautiful dried cherry fruit and has a soft, supple character. The 2011 Eight Bells Cabernet Sauvignon 'David's Block' is one of the old world field blends that exist at Red Willow Vineyard, originally designed by owner, Mike Sauer and David Lake of Columbia Winery. The goal of a field blend block is to manage it such that all the fruit can be harvested at the same time to allow the winery to co-ferment it into an integrated blend. The wine includes Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, Cabernet Franc, and Petite Verdot.

2012 NUMBSKULL RED

The 2012 Mark Ryan Red 'Numbskull' is a blend of 58% Syrah, 26% Grenache, and 6% Mourvèdre made with fruit sourced from Walla Walla vineyards. Spicy, bold, and full-bodied, it is a great wine for summer barbecues.

1998 DOM PERIGNON 'P2'

Dom Perignon's Chef du Cave, Richard Geoffrey discovered that as bottles of Dom Perignon rest on their lees in the cellars, the maturation isn't steady. Instead the Champagne remains unchanged for years until mother nature has her way. Then the wine makes a quantum leap in quality. These leaps are termed "plentitudes" and seem to occur at 7-9 year intervals. There are three levels of development: the vintage wine, Plentitude 2 (P2), and Plentitude 3. After the third, there are no more, only slow and steady improvement, lasting nearly 100 years. Dom Perignon that is not resting on its lees never makes the second or third plentitude. We are fortunate to be one of the few retailers to receive the first shipment of 1998 Dom Perignon 'P2'.

PINOT NOIR - THE NEXT GENERATION

Cody Wright is the son of Ken Wright of Ken Wright Cellars and Corby Stonebraker-Soles of Roco Winery. Cody grew up making wine and getting "purple hands" working at Ken Wright Cellars and then at Argyle. He also worked in Australia at Knappstein Winery in Claire Valley. Sourcing fruit from a series of vineyards in the Dundee Hills, Cody has crafted delicious full-flavored Pinot Noirs. The 2012 Purple Hands Pinot Noir 'Stoller Vineyard' is a blend of 777 and Wadenswil clones that is bright and spicy. The 2012 Purple Hands Pinot Noir 'Holstein Vineyard' uses 777 and 115 clones and has a rich full mid-palate. Jason Lett, the son of pioneer David Lett, began making the wines at The Eyrie Vineyards in 2005. The 2012 The Eyrie Vineyards Pinot Noir is a bold, deep flavored wine with the dark color and the big berry flavor of the vintage. These wines show the continued growth and development of the Oregon wine industry.

2012 DOMAINES LEFLAIVE MÂCON

In 2004, Domaines Leflaive acquired five parcels of mature Chardonnay vines in the commune of Verzé in the Mâconnais region of France, (Les Chênes, En Perret, Le Monté, Escolles and Les Muses). A total of 23 acres are biodynamically farmed by family member, Paul de Noüe. The wine is produced and aged in a fashion similar to the wines from Puligny-Montrachet for which the estate is famous. The 2012 Domaines Leflaive Mâcon-Verzé is rich with new oak and hazelnut flavors and a bright citrusy acidity.

2012 CHRISTIAN MOREAU CHABLIS

The vineyard for the 2012 Christian Moreau Chablis is located in the village of Chablis, in the climat Les Pargues, on the left bank of the Serein River. It benefits from an excellent south, south-east exposure. The soil is made up of Kimmeridgien clay and is rich in the fossil shells of a small oyster, Exogyra virgula. This imparts the familiar sea breeze note found in better Chablis. The 2012 Christian Moreau Chablis tastes like a 1er Cru wine, having a complex and citrusy aroma, lovely acidity, and a long, crisp finish.

2013 SCHOENHEITZ RIESLING

The vineyards of Wihr-au-Val belonged to the famous Habsbourg and Ribeaupierre families in the Middle Ages. But the devastation of World War II nearly wiped out the region. In 1980, Dominique and Henri Schoenheitz set about rebuilding the winery and creating world-class wines from Wihr-au-Val. Located in the heart of the Munster Valley, the soils are perfect for Alsatian varieties and the steep slopes require that all fruit is hand harvested. Vibrant acidity and a dry style give the 2013 Schoenheitz Riesling a broad range of flavors it can match—from seafood stews to grilled pork chops.

PECCHENINO

Orlando and Attilio Pecchenino farm 25 hectares, of which 22 are located in the Commune of Dogliani, and 3 in Monforte d'Alba. The area of Dogliani is especially suited to the cultivation of the Dolcetto grape, and has been since 1432. A full 70% of the estate vineyards are dedicated to Dolcetto, with the remaining planted to Barbera, Nebbiolo, Chardonnay and Sauvignon Blanc. They also own land in the municipality of Monforte d'Alba, one of the prime areas for the production of Barolo, at San Giuseppe, where the cru 'Le Coste' is produced.

2013 PIEROPAN SOAVE

The 2013 Pieropan Soave Classico is made from fruit that is hand-harvested off west facing estate owned vineyards, situated at 100-300 meters above sea level. It is a combination of 85% Garganega and 15% Trebbiano di Soave from volcanic soils. The wine has a delicate aroma reminiscent of almond and citrus blossoms. The winery considers it to be the best they have made since the legendary 1996 vintage!

2012 GRAN MORAINÉ PINOT NOIR

The Jackson Family purchased the Solena Estate Winery, one of the rare parcels of Yamhill-Carlton vineyards that was available. Named for the rock carved by glaciers during the last ice age, Gran Moraine is a majestic hillside vineyard reminiscent of the grand crus of Burgundy's Cote d'Or. The cooling effect of ocean breezes through the Van Duzer Corridor, along with a drier location in the rain shadow of the Coastal Range. The shallow and particularly well-drained Willakenzie series of ocean sediment soil makes this area an ideal place to grow Pinot Noir. The talented Eugenia Keegan was chosen to craft the wines, and her first release is a stellar achievement. Get on board!
